December 6, 1928.

Mr. J. C. Collier,
Barnesville, Ga.

Dear Father:

Annie Reid says that you can secure a Government marker without charge for marking Vines Collier's grave; in addition, the Society of Colonial Wars would no doubt mark his grave, provided sufficient evidence could be produced to show that the spot near Lexington is actually where he is buried.

Annie Reid is up and around the room today, but has felt wretched as a result of the flu. I expect her to be out tomorrow.

Little Robert is better today and has been playing outside.

Sincerely yours,
